

Carole Jue, NCAA Coach

In the mid-1980's, Carol began establishing herself as a player at Montebello High School and then at Cal-State Los Angeles and Claremont-Mudd Scripps. In her playing career, she has earned championships, awards and recognition for her determined-spirit, coach-ability, foresight and leadership on the hardwood. Returning to all her alma maters, she began formulating her coaching career at Montebello High, asst. coach at CSULA and Claremont.

Gaining recognition and notoriety as a formidable Coach, Carol has been acknowledged as Coach of the Year, NCAA, All Independents for 2005 and 2009. Currently the Head Coach of Women's Basketball for Chapman University, she has taken the team to six play-off berths in six years with a overall winning record of 142-49. These are numbers and accolades that coaches across America, maybe even the world, dream of achieving. With her knowledge of basketball and undying determination, Carol Jue could very well be the 1st Chinese American Female Coach inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame.

Lastly, Carol credits the immeasurable support of her husband of 16 years, Kevin, to her success. He is the constant in her life. Being a mother of two, Ryley and Carson, a professor and a coach, her achievements are only accomplished by their loving partnership. Carol Jue transcends gender and race barriers, yet all the while uplifting the face of Chinese-Americans to new heights and recognition.
